

Birthday Cards

Three of Clubs:

Essayist

Characteristics: Once the Three of Clubs decide on a single philosophy and stick with it, they can be excellent sales people or even propagandists. Business is definitely the forte of this card. They have an aptitude for business because of the second Karma Card. Big business and big finances are what moves them and they can, under the right circumstances be great leaders. An issue can develop as the result of their first Karma Card, which leans them toward vocations that limit their freedom too much. Freelance work or other areas that permit more autonomy call them for this reason. Because the Three of Clubs is very creative, some good things in that area are possible. They include being successful writers, actors or teachers. They can, on the negative side, be worriers and let indecisiveness get in their way; wasting time on the frivolous. Repeatedly, even with successful individuals, there is a strong tendency to worry, fret and have difficulty deciding things. This can be life-long. How God given abilities and blessing are applied in life is what determines success. Sadness will come into their live via emotional loss in relationships that seemed eternal but, as it turns out, are not. These graduations or completions, as they are best viewed, can lift them to a higher plane such that they limit their disappointment. Universal love is a potential in their lives if they activate their spiritual knowledge and inheritance. Changing worry into something creative and transforming energy in this manner is why they are here. Faith is the operative word. This could result in them being great examples for others. They can be tempted to use their creativity in dubious fashions because the Three of Clubs has a fear of poverty motivating them at times. They generally get caught if they try to involve themselves in immoral activities. Something pertaining to entertainment is a possibility for this card because they can use their creativity to be writers, speakers or producers.

Relationships: Playing the field, dating and enjoying the variety that life has to offer makes the most sense in terms of happiness for them. A lover in addition to their spouse is possible for Three of Clubs people. Losses come into their lives, but happiness is possible once they decide to refuse less than they desire. These are very kind people with very good hearts and they will do almost anything for others. Plainly put, they have to deal with a lot prior to having a meaningful relationship.

Commitments are the issue for this fundamentally indecisive person. But they do try to experience the essence of life and the variety of things it has to offer and this is a positive. Relationships are often a come and go situation. Continuing to move toward those who do not make commitments themselves is a big drawback for them.

Personality Connections: Three of Clubs of both genders can be good friends with Clubs men, but there is little marriage potential there. Spades women should be avoided by both genders. Diamond women are a weakness for men Three of Clubs and there is a possible love connection there. A possibility for a meaningful relationship exists. Diamond men are enjoyed by Three of Clubs women and there is a positive mysterious aspect there.

Confrontations: Threes are fond of keeping open options in their lives so they can go in different directions. Allowing for every possibility though, can be hard work. All of these choices can become annoying and the root of problems in addition to being enjoyable. The Three of Clubs knows this. A sort of panic attack can be precipitated. There can be quick shifts in mood as the result of this nervous tension. Three of Clubs individuals are happy. They are loquacious and enjoyable to be with. Distress can pop into their lives, however, and they begin to question every detail. Variety is something all Three of Clubs people value.
