Seven of Hearts

Metaphysical Raptures

Characteristics: It is easy for the Seven of Hearts to get what they desire from most people in life. Metaphysically they are old and here to reach the peaks. They are here to complete a grand circle in their work on their soul and to let go of a lot of things in order to progress to the next level. This is shown by the Nines in their Life Path. Letting go of their attachments and giving to others and not expecting return or reward is what they must learn. Their karma often brings with it health issues so their health should be monitored carefully to avoid serious challenges. There is a need for a change of lifestyle or a need to let go of some part of it if there is a problem. They might, for instance have to resign from a job because it is just too much stress. Carried over from previous lives are often sometimes certain physical habits, which are hard to break. Actually, some bad habits like smoking can be one. It is their destiny though, to deal with these issues and that includes the unhealthy patterns even though they will be difficult to let go of. Some highly successful finance managers and owners of businesses are Seven of Hearts. Many Seven of Hearts men interestingly are involved in the world of finance. Their desire for financial success and their inclinations for justice in all their friendships and relationships are a challenge that needs to be balanced. The desire to have harmonious relationships and strong ambitions often is in conflict. Suffering great pain and disappointment will be the result for the Seven or Nine who has not learned to give and let go. They can experience the pinnacle of unconditional love as the givers of wisdom and love. They can be preoccupied with many suspicions and jealousies on the lower side, but this is often just a reflection of their own insecurity. We also find, on the higher side, counselors and others who make huge personal sacrifices to help others and who are capable of giving so much to the world. Seven of Hearts are always there for understanding and as a sounding board. To acquire peace and satisfaction they all have to find a way to give something to the world. Teaching, counseling or consulting are often the results.

Relationships: The best area for personal growth and wellbeing is in relationships. They care for their loved ones so much that Seven of Hearts will frequently attempt to dominate or push their loved ones and this generally does not work out well for them. The reverse can happen when a dominating person is attached to them. They will find the best companion in someone that is a friend first and will become their real true mate. The most satisfaction resides in this approach to love. Once they stop being so self-controlling it will work out for them. Social ability and charm are part of their character. They meet these challenges only in their closest relationships. There is an aggressive quality in the male Seven of Hearts when meeting new people or potential lovers. Their mates are invariably powerful. Because of their staggering spiritual power, something less than the truth and nonattachment will cause more suffering than it is worth every time. They can be a bit restless emotionally and this carries over into a bit of the wanderlust. Sudden love affairs are possible just as are sudden endings.

Personality Connections: Both genders benefit from Diamond females. Diamond men challenge all Seven of Hearts. Upon meeting a King the Seven of Hearts knows they have met their match; a person who can deal with them yet not restrict them.

Confrontations: An exceedingly loving person who longs for a life without fears about love and affection is the essence of the Seven of Hearts. They are a beacon of unconditional love and want to love all for who they are. Previous incarnations, however, mean they also have a profound inner conflict. They had a great emotional power in a previous life, according to their Karma Card, and this was possibly abused. They got used to doing things their own way and permitted themselves a lot of slack in their sexuality, or their character, in that former lifetime.
