Eight of Spades:

Effectiveness in Labor

Characteristics: The power of Eight of Spades' strong will is how they enforce their actions. Abuse of power would seem to follow those who have the greatest power to use. Using such power any way they want could be the reason to use their gift as they please. A person might automatically believe that because they have such power they must be right. All Eights are hurt from the consequence of actions based on this conception, because it is so far from the truth. As an extremely powerful card and the Eight of Eights, the Eight of Spades has the heaviest weight to carry and a major obligation to use power for good. There is a temptation to take this power and apply it or to run away from fears and deny looking at themselves. In the final analysis their work must take priority over their love life because they are to make a contribution to society. They are hard workers and even, in some cases, workaholics. The majority of Spade people cannot free their focus from materialism. Actually, Spades should guide us to the spiritual realm. If they are motivated to work, success is almost guaranteed for them. Their tremendous power is something they are aware of. Frequently, challenges highlight their real abilities. They can change the lives of others because of a profound healing power. A less negative attitude about life during the changes that come with life will be a challenge for their development. Healing and more individual autonomy come from the study of the spiritual. However, the question is how it will be applied. Self-destruction is possible if they work from a lower plane, or if they are motivated by fear. Admiration and respect are results they are motivated by. They frequently try to marry individuals who are well off financially, but make good providers themselves. If their marriages should finish, they are the exception that always seems to come out good financially.

Relationships: They seem to have thought of love more than we might suspect even though their work is generally the primary part in their lives. They respect people who are very intelligent and are drawn to those with whom they can communicate well with. They learn that this same power can destroy the delicate balance that is necessary in a meaningful relationship, especially when they have so much power that they can use. They have success in relationships if they are aware of their personal fears. Their job is often the place they find the individual they are seeking. Their mates often work with them in business partnerships. With their choice of mates, finances appear to be an important factor. There is a distinct emotion foundation in the Eight of Spades and there is usually no restlessness or indecision emanating from them as there is with a lot of the cards in the deck. In a committed relationship, including marriage, they have a better chance than most at success. Due to an emotionally immature aspect, however, it frequently takes a while for them to comprehend the concept of love as well as they do their vocation. Learning through trial and error, they often take a conceptual or intellectual approach to love, romance and matrimony itself. They often follow a practical rule in their choices and choose someone who has more money and is well off.

Personality Connections: Diamond females are found to be attractive by Eight of Spades, but they can also disagree a great deal. There will be control problems with people born as a Jack or higher of any suit because the Eight of Spades is a power card. Both men and women enjoy the friendship of other Spades. The Eight of both genders is very challenging for Diamond men.

Confrontations: Their knack to bring about things by a sheer sense of will and determination means the Eight of Spades surpasses the other Eights in this regard. This can create confrontations with others and they have to be careful to be aware of these qualities that they have in their interaction with others.
