This is a combination that is in harmony with itself; a dialectic without conflict and a match made in the stars. They are not so much laid back as they are held back by their personality. There is essentially no internal turmoil in the Capricorn-Rooster, however. This combination is a person of principles. The Capricorn-Rooster presents a distinguished and perfectly groomed individual. They are a tower of strength and as honest as any combination around. They are opinionated, reticent and traditional. They are also a person who places a high value on liberty. This makes them comfortable being on their own, but they do prefer to have other people around them. The Capricorn-Rooster is a person who can be relied on. They are amiable and very well mannered. This is a kind and helpful combination and they love to make others happy. Smiling and happy, they travel the world, or even their neighborhood, meeting others and learning about customs, cultures and history. All of this makes them popular and they are always on people's party lists. They are invited to dinner, asked to the opera and urged to visit the Taj Mahal with travel friends they made on the Internet. This combination knows the power of words and chooses them carefully. As a result they are both tactful and well spoken. In a way, what one sees and hears from the Capricorn-Rooster is the real person. The Capricorn-Rooster racks up the frequent flyer miles because they love to travel. They are intelligent and curious about the world. The new, the novel and the different fascinate them.

Romance: This combination is standoffish. They are hesitant about hugs and kisses and even touches; particularly if those things are done in public. They do have feelings and those feelings run deep. They want to be more demonstrative with the person they love because they do care. Perhaps part of the reason for this is that they have so many friends and acquaintances around them all the time. They empathize with others. Nonetheless, if they love someone, that person always comes first. Those in love with the Capricorn-Rooster might need to look a little harder to find the love of the Capricorn-Rooster, but it is there and it is as real as they are. In spite of the wonderful news outlined above, there is an issue with the Capricorn-Rooster; one that pertains to love. There is a distance emotionally speaking to these individuals.

Relationships: In the negative for compatibility in this combination are Cancer and Libra-Rabbits. Furthermore, Aries and Cancer-Boars are not a good idea at all. Fine selections for romance are those who are Snakes. Among those the best picks are Leo, Scorpio, Sagittarius or Pisces. Absolutely terrific choices come from those who are Taurus, Scorpio or Pisces-Buffalos and a good pick is a Taurus-Horse.

Family Life: This combination wants to be comfortable, but when possible they want someone else to take care of the details. Their other pursuits keep them occupied. The Capricorn-Rooster loves their children, but is not especially patient with them. Overall, the mind takes the front seat and the emotions take a back seat. The Capricorn-Rooster is not really the sort who cares a lot about their home. They are materialistic and do want to be presentable. They are just not into decorating the home themselves, nor are they into fixing, designing, mending or building things.

Likelihood: The Capricorn-Rooster is talented and intelligent. They can excel because of their ability to deal with problem solving issues. Unfortunately, there is a difficulty here too. That difficulty involves a somewhat insecure individual or one who does not assert oneself because they are too self-effacing. The Capricorn-Rooster in professional terms is very flexible and capable of doing a number of things. This, like life itself, has advantages and disadvantages. The advantages are obvious in that they provide insurance and present options. The disadvantages, while not as obvious, include creating a temptation to move on to something new without finishing the work they are presently involved in. That can mean setbacks. It can also lead to a confused individual in terms of life choices.
