

Chinese and Western Combinations

Leo (Monkey) Month

Combination with Boar Year:

"Will Power" Sun, Fire, Fixed

"Cultivator" Yin-Negative Water

Characteristics: Honesty, Hesitation, Boarheadedness, Materialism, Gourmandism, Voluptuousness, Culture, Credulity, Immodesty, Philanthropy, Gallantry, Sincerity, Vanity, Scrupulousness, Warmth, Promiscuity, Arrogance, Self-Satisfaction, Wrath, Tyranny, Protection, Power, Loyalty, Nobility

There is a desire for fun and a good time for this combination that accompanies the humor. In fact, this combination is prone to kind of overdo everything. Name something that most people enjoy, say food, and the Leo-Boar excels at it. That runs the gamut from sex to philanthropy. All combinations have a least one thing that stands out among their characteristics. With the Leo-Boar it is humor. They are just plain funny and they can always bring about at least a smile with those they encounter. There is a strong willed and responsible person here too, but it is the humor that people notice the most. It is a natural sort of comedic being that is simply part of their personality. It is not planned; it just happens spontaneously in the best of times and the worst of times. It is quite easy to determine that this is true of the Leo-Boar simply by asking them. They are also exceedingly honest. Luxury is not something that is an extra in the life of this combination. Luxury is a need. It must shine, glitter, be famous and most of all, expensive. In the food department too, only the gourmet will do. There is absolutely nothing over the top with this combination and they are just not ostentatious. They have class and a lot of it. In spite of what some might assume, this combination loves the home. They need a firm and secure home base. They want to be with those they love and they want them to be well. Everything about this combination though is gift wrapped in humor and fun. Clothing is only acceptable if it comes from the finest designers and is up to date. It should not be inferred that this combination only worries about themselves. They are quite generous and willing to share with everyone. This too they tend to overdo and many friends wonder why they give away so much to so many. The reason is, like the other traits, that they simply cannot help themselves.

Romance: There will be neither wild headlines nor even local gossip about the happenings in the relationship of a Leo-Boar. Having said this, there is a bit of a double standard operating here in that this individual demands blind faith and allegiance. The Leo side of this combination loves to be paid attention to and sometimes that comes in the form of running around a bit in the sexual sense of that phrase. The Boar side, however, does balance this tendency out a bit, if not completely. Boars are inward looking and strongly emphasize good judgment.

Relationships: Snakes, particularly Aries, Taurus, Scorpio and Aquarius-Snakes, should be avoided for compatibility for this combination. Maybe the very best choice of all is a Gemini-Dog. Humor comes to the forefront here in love and romance too and thus recommended are Aries, Gemini, Libra, Sagittarius or Capricorn-Buffalos, Rabbits and Rams.

Family Life: The home of this combination might make the cover of Home and Garden magazine. It could be on the list of sights to see in town. They are fussy about all of this and it will be done their way. Yes, they do maintain their sense of humor but they shall not be moved; not one inch. No posters taped to the wall in the kid's room will be permitted. The man of the house cannot collect beer cans. Hand woven carpets are fine, but throw rugs are not. Style and class are the essence of this combination at home. They want and will accept nothing but the very best; from the bedroom to the patio to the garden, it must be perfect. Silk sheets are standard issue in the home of a Leo-Boar.

Likelihood: Consequently this combination pushes on striving for perfection but never finding anything but fault with themselves. Fortunately, they can laugh it off. A Leo-Boar overdoes in the area of achieving things just as they do everything else. At the same time, they are not satisfied that they have accomplished enough.

Famous Leo/Boars: Carl Jung, Henry Ford, Lucille Ball, Alfred Hitchcock.