This combination is not the most peaceful internally. Libra loves balance and a stable home life while the Monkey is talkative and enjoys a good fight from time to time. The Libra-Monkey is an artist who paints with words. They can do virtually anything with their verbal skills, both negative and positive. They are able to use words for wonderful and creative things or they can manipulate them for less desirable motives. Clearly, they are fantastic conversationalists and there is never a boring moment when in their company. The Libra-Monkey is highly capable of rationalizing anything that is borderline in the manipulation department. They know they always want what is best for others and it is just a coincidence that it happens to be in their best interest as well. This is a bright and amusing combination. They are very easy going in many ways, thanks to the Monkey influence. There is a fidgety element in the nature of the Libra-Monkey and they sometimes suffer from a kind of wanderlust on a small scale. They want to move from spot to spot. This combination is perfectly capable of using its intelligence and way with words to exploit people.

Romance: In the end, the Libra-Monkey wants a two way street of mutuality in all things. Consequently they make for a good choice for many individuals. The overall picture in terms of romance for the Libra-Monkey is one where the relationship is important and devotion is present. That is not to say that everything is perfect. This combination can, for example, be selfish. Sometimes this can overcome the natural tendency to be fair.

Relationships: Cancer-Boars and Capricorn-Buffalos are ruled out entirely for compatibility in this combination. Dragons are a good choice in the area of love and romance. The best bets there are Gemini, Leo, Sagittarius or Aquarius individuals. Other good picks include Leo, Sagittarius and Aquarius-Rats. Lower on the list are Aries or Cancer-Horses as are Cancer or Capricorn-Tigers.

Family Life: This combination's security is not based in their real estate. The Libra-Monkey makes good parents. They are loving and caring. In addition, many of them are still kids at heart. This combination has a home to live in and to go to after work.

They are not particularly interested in making a big production out of things. Like most people, they do enjoy comfort and luxury, but they do not need a villa. In addition, while they are not the type to pack up and move to Fiji on the spur of the moment, they simply do not need that much.

Likelihood: This combination makes wonderful friends and co-workers and is able to be in positions that utilize their verbal ability and human relations aptitude. As bosses they are able to gain respect because of their intelligence and communication skills. The Libra-Monkeys carry themselves well and has an appearance of stature. There is a dignity about them. They have a wonderful ability to use words. Additionally they are able to convert words into more concrete notions. This makes them especially good at jobs that require such abilities such as public relations.
