This individual responds to the sensations that they pick up from their environment and other people. This is an individual who lives in the past and loves tradition. In this manner it can be said that they were born too late. The Pisces-Boar is hypersensitive; so much so that it can be a rather large problem for them. They just seem to have deeper feelings than most other people. This manifests itself, for starters, as making them very calm and kind individuals. Somewhat surprisingly, however, is the fact that they are super motivated to succeed. The problems they encounter in love are frequently the result of living in the contemporary world which is, to a degree, a world they do not fit into and do not understand. They like to have old-fashioned furnishings and accessories, do old-fashioned activities and be old-fashioned. They are very fragile. Even if hurt, which can happen easily, they still refuse to move on in time. They are quite good at making excuses in order to not do things in a way they dislike or do not understand. They do this to save face. Unfortunately, since they are sensitive, they are probably laughed at or teased and this hurts. Doing things the quick, easy and modern way annoys this person. They have little interest in technology. This approach to life creates issues for the Pisces-Boar necessitating a tougher road to the advancement that they seek. Clearly an individual who is challenged technologically has a rather serious problem in the modern world. The load and the work that they must do is heavier, but it is that way because of their own personal choice. They are immovable in this area and very obstinate about it.
