

Chinese and Western Combinations

Scorpio (Boar) Month

Combination with Monkey Year:

"Form" Mars, Water, Fixed

"Arrange" Yin-Positive Metal

Characteristics: Zeal, Opportunism, Stability, Cunning, Discipline, Self-Intransigence, Involvement, Wit, Silliness, Loquacity, Leadership, Improvisation, Deceit, Revenge, Magnetism, Tenderness, Inspiration, Suspicion, Ruse, Dedication, Sadism, Mercilessness, Fanaticism, Sovereignty

This combination has a bullwhip for a tongue, is cunning and unfathomable. All this might be hard to perceive because the Scorpio-Money can come off as cheerful and even childish. There is always the darkness below the bright surface. Both the Monkey and the Scorpio are slippery and deceitful. The Scorpio-Monkey is a complicated combination. They have both creativity as well as shrewdness. Lightning is going to strike somewhere. This, of course, makes them perfect for leadership. There is a lot of passion in the Monkey while that space is filled with resentment in the Scorpio. All of this leads to an internal clash and the result can cause confusion in this combination. Frequently it boils down to what they should do; fool some of the people as often as possible, or try to work their tails off. The Monkey side of this character is playing around while the Scorpio side is quite serious. There are a number of opposing characteristics between Monkeys and Scorpions. For example, Monkeys enjoy making things, while Scorpions like to knock things down.

Romance: Anyone involved with this combination must be prepared for someone who is primarily sexual in their approach to life. Among the corollaries that come with sexual gratification for the Scorpio-Monkey is self-esteem. This is how they get their ego boosted. This combination is sexual; high octane sexual. Start with the super sexy Scorpio and then blend that with the titillating Monkey and you have a person who is focused on sex. There also happens to be a lot of energy powering this person. The eroticism and sexual drive of this combination must be of the highest quality; no half-baked frolicking in the hay here.

Relationships: Aquarius-Buffalos and Rams are a very poor choice in the realm of love. Cancer, Virgo, Capricorn or Pisces-Rats are at the top of the list for romance. In addition Cancer, Capricorn and Pisces-Dragons are good for the Scorpio-Monkey. Taurus and Leo-Tigers are not the best of choices nor are Leo-Horses and Leo-Boars.

Family Life: This combination likes to display things from their travels. As if this were not enough, their car is, to put it very gently, different; supremely different. Not only is it a wreck, it might actually be a Mercedes turned into a pickup truck. This is the person who never grew up which makes for a very fun-loving parent. They probably know more knock-knock jokes than their child. The Scorpio-Monkey wants some homegrown individuality in their house. Strange or personal stuff will be hanging on walls and fill up shelves. There will be several distinctively weird things in their home; maybe a suit of armor or collection of hats.

Likelihood: Professionally they need a lot of freedom and flexibility. Their fuse is short when they are uncomfortable at work. They probably do not make good bosses and more than likely eschew power and try to replace it with freedom. Creativity is the hallmark of the Scorpio-Monkey. They have other talents as well. They can figure things out with ease. They can weave stories that please the young and old alike. They have quick minds that categorize things logically. While they are not comfortable before large audiences, they do very well in more personal situations.

Famous Scorpio/Monkeys: James Kilpatrick, Louis Malle, Alistair Cooke.