

Chinese and Western Combinations

Taurus (Snake) Month

Combination with Snake Year:

"Possess" Venus, Earth, Fixed

"Feel" Yang-Negative Fire

Characteristics: Compassion, Industry, Exclusiveness, Discretion, Sagacity, Laziness, Cupidity, Presumption, Clairvoyance, Jealousy, Intractability, Intuition, Attractiveness, Dissimulation, Extravagance, Patience, Gluttony, Complacency, Logic, Sensuality, Languor, Ardor, Determination, Prejudice

The Snake portion of this combination is the economic advisor and is extraordinarily good at it. Considering that they are highly materialistic, this is probably a good thing. The Taurus-Snake is a fascinating mixture of the ostentatious but tasteful person combined with financial wizard. And that is only the tip of the iceberg. Fortunately, the Taurus side holds some sway in the combination and takes the Snake down a couple of notches to something more manageable. The Taurus, too, is acquisitive. Considering this, and the fact that Snakes generally have fine taste, more than likely this combination has a strong attachment to fine art and comfort. They are extremely aesthetic and materialistically driven. The end result is probably akin to a marriage of an award-winning chef with the curator to the Museum of Modern Art. Unfortunately this affliction attacks them from both sides of their combination and coupled with this is an obstinacy that renders them inflexible at times. In spite of the show they put on, there is a lack of self-assurance. Because of the Snake element and the plodding Taurus, however, financial success is usually assured. They know their stuff. Taurus-Snakes most serious problem is that they tend to be lazy, very lazy. They lean toward being lackadaisical procrastinators and daydreamers who frequently eat too much.

Romance: What this combination needs more than anything is a regime that makes it clear life has responsibilities and that life sometime has some unpleasant chores. If they are actually going to accomplish anything, they need some discipline. Notwithstanding the above, the Taurus-Snake is one of the beautiful people of the world and they know it. They expect things to be handed to them on silver platters and to be fed with silver spoons. This is not a wise thing to do.

Relationships: Leo-Tigers and Boars are not recommended in this combination. Avoid Scorpio or Aquarius-Tigers. The tendency for fantasy in romance needs to be avoided. Good relationship choices are Cancer, Virgo, Capricorn and Pisces Buffalos, Dragons and Roosters.

Family Life: Keeping it in mind their sort of lackadaisical nature and penchant for laziness, it should not be a surprise that comfort is very significant to them. However, given the highly aesthetic mindset of their being, this comfort must be of top quality and supremely stylish. You will find any number of places to lounge around in their homes and the most comfortable beds on the planet. The environment of the Taurus-Snake is of supreme importance to them. This does not mean that they are tree-huggers; it means that their home's accoutrements play a vital role in their happiness.

Likelihood: In this combination they want to be professionals because the money and security are there. Thus they gravitate toward things like accounting or academia. In management positions they tend to let the Taurus plodding and slow style dominate too much. Security is also important in this combination's life and that is reflected in their choice of careers. They are excellent with money but are not gamblers. They shun risk taking.

Famous Taurus/Snakes: Johannes Brahms, Henry Fonda, I. M. Pei, Audrey Hepburn, Daniele Darrieux