The Virgo-Dog may seem moody and grouchy frequently, but that is not the nature of this combination. The soul and perhaps the inspiration too, of this person can be seen on their countenance. Look at the face carefully and there is a deep kindness and concern. One can forget what appears to be class and erudition. What one sees in a casual glance is a mask and not the real person. The Virgo-Dog is two people, but not in the way the Gemini is. This combination has the external and visible side of their being and the internal side. The latter is the real one and the one that matters. When help is needed this combination is there, especially for those they care about, but for society at large too. If a person needs a shoulder to cry on or an ear to hear one's troubles, the Virgo-Dog is the choice. They are not the bubbliest people on earth and they may not have a reputation as a do-gooder. This combination is also very family-oriented and they take good care of those they love. They also enjoy sharing time with them. Inside this combination though, is a person who really cares. While the Virgo-Dog may not be a human calculating machine, they will need a big calculator to add up the sums of money they will likely make. The likelihood of this comes for one place and that is hard work. Few can outwork this combination. While generous, they do watch their finances and silly money-making schemes are not for them.

Romance: This combination does have that external moodiness that shows itself from time to time, but they are honorable. To keep things smooth on the domestic front, a partner of this combination would be advised to inject loads of humor into things. Virgo-Dogs are not desperate for love. They probably do not frequent dating websites and if they do their profile is modest. They are not seekers of attention. They do want to marry, but if they do, a life without drama, lots of quiet and humor is what works for them.

Relationships: For this combination poor choices are Scorpio and Capricorn-Horses for compatibility. Additional combinations to avoid are Gemini, Sagittarius and Pisces-Rams. To be strictly avoided are Sagittarius or Pisces-Dragons. Top romantic choices for the Virgo-Dog are Taurus, Cancer, Scorpio and Capricorn people. Among these the best are Taurus, Scorpio and Capricorn-Tigers. Also good are Cancer, Capricorn and Scorpio-Rabbits.

Family Life: In terms of style, the home is somewhat plain but attractive. It works well. Just like the Virgo-Dog, one needs to look below the surface. Underneath the starkness there is a light of kindness that loved ones cannot miss. The pride of home ownership for the Virgo-Dog stems from a deep connection to the home. That connection is related to the fact that they built it themselves,; at least in some sense of that phrase. They worked hard and they endured to make it a reality.

Likelihood: The only problem they seem to encounter at work is sometimes not following things through to completion. The astute boss will notice that this is because the Virgo-Dog is helping his co-workers who are either inept at something or just downright lazy. Caution in the area of overworking is recommended for this combination. Virgo-Dogs are responsible workers. In fact, they are exceptionally and beyond the call of duty responsible. Their aptitudes run in the direction of projects requiring meticulous work and problem solving. This might make them good in mechanically oriented professions.

Famous Virgo/Dogs: Rene Levesque, Kate Millet, Sophia Loren, Barry Gibb, Michael Jackson, Jean-Louis Barrault.
