Aquarius people have a Broadway show tune written for their sign from the musical, "Hair" Harmony and Understanding /Sympathy and trust abounding/No more falsehoods or derisions /Golden living dreams of visions/Mystic crystal revelation/And the mind's true liberation / Aquarius! / Aquarius!. Aquarius people are compassionate and kind and love all of humanity. They have a lovely quality of acceptance that allows them to travel and visit and be well received. They think creatively about humankind's spiritual growth and that creativity is powerful and needs to be encouraged. Aquarius people know a lot of people but are close with relatively few. And those few intimate companions will not see or hear emotional scenes where one lets their hair down. Sympathy and trust abounding yes; poems of love, no. They are keen, entertaining, and avant-garde and someone that everyone will remember with a smile. They enjoy being in groups where they use their vision and inherent sense of fairness to further the groups purpose. Aquarius people also are lone rangers, pioneers who are outsiders as far as society's niceties are concerned. They sometimes affect changes just for the sake of changing. Jack of all trades, master of none describes many Aquarius people. They will linger in any work or profession but not long enough to gain proficiency. If you have them as supervisors, lucky you because although they can be erratic they give praise where praise is due and are even-handed in their treatment of their underlings and colleagues. Aquarius maintains a very interesting office, more like a gallery cum workshop with intriguing objects. Do not fence me in could be an Aquarius motto in the romance section of life. Some love objects of Aquarius complain of a dearth of emotional outpourings but not to be concerned it's just in their nature to work it out inside. It's like Aquarius people were born doing the Fusion of the Five Elements meditation transforming and refining their negative energies through the neutralizing and purifying techniques of Internal Alchemy. The resulting transformation of destructiveness into creative energy fuels Aquarius desire to solve all that is wrong with humanity. The Aquarius color is deep red.
