

It is All in the Stars

Theory and Concept

In deep meditation the Taoist sages of old could see this molecular sea that we live in with its repeated patterns in spiraling motions. As these sages started to analyze these patterns of molecular streams they could detect certain vibrations in repeated patterns which evolve over centuries into the Five Element Theory from the Cosmos (Planets), to the Earth (Elements) to the Human Body (Organs) and to its Senses (hearing, speech, sight, smells, and taste). The Taoist sages can sense the whole flow of universe through meditation from the cosmos to their inner being in repeated patterns in this molecular sea.

The difficulty came when they tried to explain this phenomenon to others who did not meditate or understand this system of molecular repeated patterns. This dilemma brought on a major breakthrough for the Taoist sages as they discovered that these molecular patterns were similar to the behavior of particular animals in nature that people could identify with such as the rat, buffalo, tiger, rabbit, dragon, snake, horse, monkey, rooster, dog and boar. They discovered with twelve different energy patterns that repeated every twelve years with related animals having similar behavior patterns. They further discovered that these animals combined with the elements of the Earth which are Metal (rocks and the mountain), Water (rivers and the sea), Wood (trees and the forest), Fire (sun and the stars), and Earth (ground and dirt) giving each animal a different phase of energy based the frequency of the earth plane that a person was born in. This gave birth to the Taoist Five Element Theory and Chinese Twelve Animal Astrology. Then the Taoist sages a thousand years ago through their meditations could easily explain these understandings so others could understand. This was achieved by explaining that a person was born in the year of horse which has the behavior pattern of a horse and wood (1954) with its year in the element cycle instead of trying to explain the molecular energy pattern of that vibration, which a common person back then had no knowledge of energy or how it moved and repeated itself.

Today we have electricity, television, and the internet so we can easily understand a molecular sea and how energy moves and interacts because we live in a world that uses it daily. This Animal/Element System of Energy Patterns was developed over centuries of Taoist meditations and study to the Chinese Twelve Animals and 5 Element Astrology of today with a complete cycle of sixty years that repeats itself. Now, this is easily understood with explanation and analysis in this Cosmic Astrology report.

Western Zodiac astrology has evolved over the centuries as well based on astronomy and the movement of the stars. This is a little more complicated to the common person with different angle to the energy patterns than by simply identifying with an animal and element in Chinese astrology. Both have different approaches with similar and linked results. The Western approach deals with a Twelve Sign Zodiac (Aries the Ram, Taurus the Bull, Gemini the Twins, Cancer the Crab, Leo the Lion, Virgo the Virgin, Libra the Scales, Scorpio the Scorpion, Sagittarius the Archer, Capricorn the Goat, Aquarius the Water Bearer, and Pisces the Fish) with the sun, stars, moons and planets. Again that is a little different angle than the 12 animals but with very effective findings with its several different combinations.

The third angle, the Birthday Card uses a playing card based on all fifty three cards in a deck including the joker as the last card and a day of the year as a symbol of that particular day in the year based on your personality and destiny which has evolved over centuries in the west.

This reading gives you insight and direction in your life based on the day you were born and also for your intimate relationships as well. It will give you a new language to communicate and relate with others in your life.

These three approaches and their combinations give you a broad understanding and explanation of your persona with clarity, perception, insight and completeness for your life's journey into the great beyond. Please enjoy discovering your persona from this web site. It seems like magic as the charts and analysis pages reveal your internal energy pattern from your first breath. It is a simple and complete way to understand why you do the things you do and how you do them, which is different from how other people approach and do them.

This is the reason we are all unique because of all the different energy patterns within us and their different frequencies at that particular time in space that we formed our pattern. Then you utilize these five different perceptions or different angles in this Cosmic Astrology report and use this information to formulate your own unique persona. This is our goal: so you can connect with your own uniqueness and you can proceed to balance and transform your energy into the next realm.
