Scorpio people carry an air of mystery to accompany their exceptional good looks and this combination functions like a magnet attracting followers. Scorpios are passionate in whatever they are doing: no half measures for them. An unfortunate feature of Scorpio is resentment leading to revenge; their nature is unforgiving and for this the Six Healing Sounds are especially called for. Unforgiveness (resentment) eats away at the liver and the spirit. Forgiveness nurtures kindness and compassion. Scorpio has so much energy and this energy goes to feed what is present in Scorpios heart and mind. If the thoughts are resentful and the intentions are aimed at revenge then the Scorpio person will probably taste the bitterness in the liver. In the long run Scorpio risks great harm to Scorpio, to oneself. The alchemy of Fusion of the Five Elements and Kan and Li is the life force tailored for the dedicated Scorpio. The result will be a refined energy feeding the highest qualities of Scorpio: loyalty, courage, discipline and inspiration. Scorpio people are known to lead double lives, one for the public self and a secret life where they dedicate their true intentions to their true goals be they life-affirming or of a dark and hurtful sort. Scorpio people tend to bring a cool and determined posture to critical or dangerous situations. They work themselves very hard and expect that others will also toil tirelessly. They abhor failings in themselves or in those around them. Scorpio people are extremists; they are very protective and caring for their loved ones and can be ferocious in the face of someone who has wronged them. They respond with generous praise for those who are kind and loving, Scorpio people are very emotional and if jealousy comes into play watch out. Scorpio people generally are intuitive and they are quite observant and understanding of an individual's purposes and what frame of mind they are in. They are loving and possessive, but are often misunderstood. Scorpio people are daring and have the capabilities to successfully manage large, complex ventures with magnificent self-confidence and control. When they've decided on a path of action their focus is unshakeable. They are especially observant and no good work goes unnoticed and no slight goes unmissed or unpunished. Scorpio people relish a healthy challenge and are more apt to come out on top than not. The Scorpio color is red.
