

Sun in Aquarius/Moon in Cancer:

Dauntlessness

---

You always view others as you would view yourself and are very aware of your own restrictions and a bit unsure of yourself. You judge others with sympathy, acceptance, and patience. Others sense your honesty and are drawn to your romantic and slightly offbeat approach, so they invariably feel comfortable with you. Your combination is one of the most creative, attractive, and most of all perceptive. It might look as though you are just a detached and remote Aquarian, but beneath that cool, intellectual surface is a very sensitive, understanding, and highly perceptive individual. You have incredible intensity, insight, and instinct. Two of your strengths are empathy and adaptability. You can intuitively understand all sorts of people. You are at home almost anywhere and there is nothing fake or arrogant about you. There is no limit to your creative imagination. You are capable of reaching your many dreams and goals because you are tuned in. And you have really big dreams. You tend to hold in pain and frustrations ad infinitum, which may cause psychological problems. A great deal, obviously, rests on your early home situation and whether it was secure and emotionally encouraging and helped to develop a positive self-image. But there is a self-sufficiency available. All Aquarians can get security and a healthy outlook via social activities, no matter what their past is. Your allure and affability almost assures support from friends and mentors later on in life if security was not present in the childhood home. Your inquisitiveness about the world around you is inexhaustible and you are likely to have many pursuits. Aquarius-Cancer combinations include Norman Mailer, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Clark Gable. A Cancer Moon increases Aquarian incompatibilities and insecurities. For example, men of this combination might attempt to make up for deep-seated fears and hide their emotional vulnerability by taking on a tough, macho surface. Aquarius-Cancers can simply become eccentric recluses or that active Cancer imagination can cause a lot of paranoia. While periodic getaways and withdrawal may be important to your emotional health, be careful that it does not become your only reaction to frustration or defeat. In order to fight the more negative expressions of their imaginations all Cancer-Aquarians should stay socially active.