

Sun in Aquarius/Moon in Libra:

Utopian

You treat everyone with acceptance, respect, and kindness and most people respond well. You believe in the fundamental goodness of humanity. Admiration and appreciation are the results of your optimistic approach to life. Even though you are trusting and pleasant, confusion takes over when you learn that not everyone possesses your standards of honesty. You are a bit unruffled but detached; nevertheless, you have a lot of allure and magnetism in your combination. Your resourcefulness and innovation are focused on dreamy, social, and artistic enterprises. You are comparatively free of psychological issues because, you state everything you perceive with complete openness and frankness. You are a very symmetrical combination and all your many talents can find constructive expression. Moreover, you are very optimistic. Others more astute and crafty pass you by in life and you probably find yourself seeing this uncomprehending. You have high ideals, but not everyone else does. You need to develop a more pragmatic viewpoint. Your nature is a dichotomy because while you love stillness and inner peace, you are also very high-strung and feel a regular desire to be active. Therefore, your requirement for harmony can be elusive. One of your best assets is your imagination. Your mind is very visual and you have a very active fantasy life. Just do not lose yourself completely to fantasy. The source of many unreasonable fears might be your overworked imagination. On the other hand if given the correct focal point and discipline, your imagination can be successfully applied in a lot of artistic and creative activities, chiefly music. Human relations work might also be something you would like. A socially oriented person is the result of your combination. Friends are critical to you and your social atmosphere often determines your self-image. You should be able to have a positive self-image if you have strong and supportive relationships. Tension and conflict really upset your emotional well-being because you are a peace-loving individual. Attempt to be in a work and home situation that is as free of stress as can be. You need to get away sometimes for self-contemplation and meditation. In your frenetic social involvements you can nearly completely lose your essence and individuality. Refrain from being involved so much with others, and give yourself some time.
