You have a lot of demands on you as well as assorted perceptions and you find introspection hard because of your busy mental schedule. You tend to want to help everyone and adapt to everything because you are kind and sensitive. No one can do this though. Try to fulfill your own dreams rather than worrying about fulfilling another person's dream. Your feelings at any given moment may just be a reflection of the environment. You have a lot going for you including a great memory with the ability to learn a lot. In addition to intelligence, you are humorous and sophisticated. Furthermore, you are very perceptive and an excellent critic. Gemini is, of course, restless by nature and wants a lot of variety in addition to being curious. Sensitivity and intuition combined with being impressionable are hallmarks of a Cancer. This combination is not without its difficulties though. Yes, there is the friendly spirit and excellent mind. Belligerent and tense situations make you that way as do, on the positive side, peaceful and calm ones. You tend to take on the emotional situation you find yourself in and it is difficult, accordingly, to discover what your real life situation and true goals are. Your intellect, imagination and inventiveness can be an asset in your profession but you are not decisive enough to be in management. A career in media or advertising is a possibility or something in the arts would be a good choice. You are not great about keeping promises and your loyalty is spread very thin. Very assertive and strong partners are a bit of a challenge for female Cancer-Gemini individuals and they might lose themselves as a result. Someone who is freedom loving and open minded like you is the best sort of partner for you. You cannot hear yourself because of the noise around you. A famous person who kind of illustrates a lot about Cancer-Gemini people is Henry David Thoreau. His important work was done in an environment of quiet and solitude. Be more honest with yourself about what you want. Learn to be more self-assertive. Try to learn what it is that you really want, what your own goals are and then, after you know, go after them. First impressions are generally the right ones for you so trust them and depend on them. While it is true that Cancer-Gemini people work well in a structure and organized situation, you should make decisions for yourself.
