

Sun in Capricorn/Moon in Aquarius:

Whiz Kid

You have a combination of good intelligence, extraordinary intuition, and compelling charm to help you achieve success. You will never be lonely because your cheerful charm will always draw people to you. You are likely to have many odd and influential friends who are vital to you. You have a very basic conflict in your combination. You have far ranging and far out involvements and activities. There is nothing like the ordinary Capricorn about you. You are bothered with the old and worn, so you approach everything with a view to change and innovation even though you are somber, responsible, and realistic. The uncharted and unknown fascinate you. You also have the bravery to explore new ideas and go down new trails. An Aquarian Moon gives determined Capricorn a solid sense of freedom to go with the Capricorn thirsting for status and acclaim. You have an enduring esteem for the past, and you feel you must conform to the influence of culture and parents. All Capricorns feel this. However your Aquarian inner being gives you an equally firm need to be free and to rebel against conventionality and tradition. You can gain self-assurance and self-esteem by remaining socially active and pursuing an energetic and stimulating professional life. Associating with individuals who can give you emotional support and encourage your plans is important for you. It is just as important that your occupation gives you status and helps boost your satisfaction in yourself. Be careful not to let your vocation take the place of complete emotional satisfaction. Should work turn into everything for you, you may become abrupt and unfeeling even though you actually are very caring. Because your charisma and personality are hard to resist, you have no problem attracting romantic involvement. You may feel a powerful sense of blame, as though somehow you are a deserter whenever you affirm yourself and lead your life according to your own special, independent viewpoint. It would be a waste of your abilities, because you are such a talented and ambitious person, if you decided not to follow your instincts. Your inhibitions are unrealistic and you have every right to decide on your own unique path to success and self-fulfillment. However, insecurity is often an issue. You probably have vague worries and uncertainties, like all Capricorns, in spite of your informal, self-assured manner. Your Aquarian thoughts can at times multiply this propensity, creating illogical phobias and suspicion.
