You are in fact an exceedingly emotional person even though you may appear distant and cold. There are periods when the strength of your emotions carries you away, but you always have the ability for difficult work and imaginative activity. Your opinions about the world are very fixed and seldom change. You are the type of individual who seems to know what is right for you. You most likely put forward your freedom by dominating all your playmates when you were young. As the nonconformist of the zodiac, few can match you for pure determination, audacity, and aggression. Ultimately you grow wiser and a lot less hot headed and fortunately you are fast to learn from your mistakes. Capricorn-Scorpios have two sides, which are rather different in nature; the out of control sensualist and the painstaking reformer. Capricorn's boredom or inhibition is not at all a part of you. You are never hesitant to say just what you think with frankness and sometimes-brutal honesty because you take the world and yourself with complete seriousness. While very perceptive, you have a strong sanctimonious streak in you, and your prejudices and dug in attitudes generally have the last word. Your own interests are usually first and you have a somewhat heartless disregard for others. Often your tastes are founded on whether or not something is to your benefit. Be careful about being so manipulative. You can probe and search the depths of existence or fly to amazing heights of spiritual wisdom, as can all those who have the Moon in Scorpio. You have most likely done both because you are so curious, you want to experience everything. Your future and whatever you do in life is largely up to you, with all that resolve. You are creative and sensual in love, but not very faithful. You are really into adventure like all Capricorns. Anyone who can keep you for a lifetime, considering all of this, is a very rare person. Your approach to reality is to look for gimmicks or places where people might slip up. You could make a brilliant detective, psychologist, or scientist with your fantastic insight and keen perception. As long as you have a clear objective in sight, you will be happy, even though you tend to be somewhat pessimistic in your dealing in life. You are very spirited and there is nothing you love more than a quarrel, especially an academic one. Having a forum for conveying your views is important for you. It can be chancy trying to keep your beliefs and persuasions locked up inside because you are so emotional. An excellent release for some of those hidden desires is writing.
