

Sun in Libra/Moon in Gemini:

Academician

Expressiveness is one of your best talents. Because people feel your basic sincerity they react positively to your refined and easygoing manner so you are able to convince others of almost anything. Most people like your frankness and know your intentions are always the best, even though you frequently alienate some with your keen wit. You have to struggle against tediousness and lack of interest. When joined with a Gemini Moon the social consciousness and mental strengths of Libra are finely tuned. Restlessness and inquisitiveness push you to discover the world, to seek answers and hidden truths. You are a real intellectual who stands apart and is objective and it is hard for you to comprehend those who are satisfied with outside impressions or who choose to settle for the shallow parts of life. You have a love for thrills and diversity and are passionate and excitable. Half of you is spent getting yourself into trouble while the other half is attempting to get out of it. You can easily slide into the trap thinking that the world provides no comfort or promise because you are inclined to see life from a removed perspective,. You may seek out transcendental experiences through spirituality and the occult arts, rather than placing your faith in the here and now. No matter how much you attempt to conform and adjust to the world you reside in, you will never stop sensing that you actually belong in another other time and place. Your fundamental buoyancy and positive reception of life's biting wit should see you through, no matter how gloomy or estranged you may feel. You have superb diplomatic abilities in addition to purely rational or artistic abilities. You will always hurry to arbitrate any problem in your environs if strain or conflict disrupts things. Law, government or social service are places this skill in mediation can be applied. You are a pagan and a radical at heart. Disillusionment with the world can bring about an assortment of harmful answers: You are an excellent actor and you may choose to play roles that fit the moment or you could depart completely. Just being yourself is a challenge. Try to recognize your being and your individuality. Only by discovering from others can you start to believe who you actually are, so be socially engaged. Your sense of humor is one thing you have going for you and you are able to express amusement with yourself and at the human predicament.