

Sun in Sagittarius/Moon in Aquarius:

Pathfinder

You can expect the unexpected when a Sagittarius-Aquarian is present. You are very unpredictable and set quite high goals for yourself. You generally follow them through, with honesty and devotion. You get unnerved when anyone tries to restrict your freedom but you are good-hearted, nice, and warm. Freedom is your favorite expression and no one can order you around. People seek you out because you are unlike people they know as well as captivating, charismatic, and friendly. You can at least count on your identity even if you were to have nothing else on earth. Activities that suggest change and innovation attract you as do being involved with others. Your greatest gift is foresight. You seem to know instantly what tomorrow has in store and you are always tuned to the future. You often say and do things that are designed to shock people and you are restless and unconventional because you hate nothing more than arrogant satisfaction. You get mixed up and impatient when others cannot keep up with you and you are generally a few steps in front of everyone else. Though you are open minded and forgiving by nature, your impatience can give you an air of conceit. It is difficult for you to be totally open in your partnerships with others because your essential emotional nature is a bit detached and remote. You have some pretty crazy friends but friendship is very important to you. Your compelling charm generally works to your advantage as does your positive approach to others, but there are occasions when a shrewder perspective is better. Eagerness and amiability may take you a long way, but they will not bake any bread. You must have choices in whatever you elect to do for a career. Intellectual pursuits draw you and you have an intellect for the theoretical. Fields, which may attract you, are politics, urban planning, and social ethics. People look up to you and try to emulate your freedom. You need to stop now in order to allow the rest of the world to catch up, but you do have certain leadership possibilities. Surprisingly, you have somewhat authoritarian, sanctimonious attitudes even though you verbalize open minded and democratic visions. After you have formed some of those revolutionary notions and beliefs they stick, so you also have a stubborn streak. Always keep your mind open, but particularly later in life. You have more wisdom and pragmatism than other Sagittarians because of your Aquarian inner nature, but you are still a bit naive.
