

Sun in Scorpio/Moon in Gemini:

Peddler

You are not nearly as deep as some others might believe even though you appear businesslike, but inscrutable. Caged would be a safer word. You present a worldly image because you are so cunning, discerning, and adroit. Humor is one of your best assets. Your strong feel for satire and your discriminating remarks almost always find an objective. Others may charge you with being untactful, but they usually return to be your audience again. You have an uneasy spirit from your Gemini Moon. You are a lot more communicative than other Scorpios and you can talk to almost anyone. This can make you a great salesperson. There is charm and exuberance to your and personal magnetism. Others find it difficult to reject your subtle and sophisticated manner. Your self-governing and defiant nature will probably carry you off in search of novelty and adventure. You may use your myriad charms just in pursuit of pleasure and you are a well-known sexaholic and sensualist. Your main problem, strangely enough, is your own cleverness because you may be enticed to live off your quick responses, instead of developing something deeper. A sort of self-satisfied sloth may come about so push yourself to the best of your abilities, and do not be so casual about your possibilities. You would be a great reporter or successful in other fact-finding work. Teaching, business or any other area that involves oral adroitness are places you can excel. You are inconsistent in love as in many things. Variety is what you need from life. You are, however, just as serious and intent as other Scorpios. Actually you are very detached even if you seem quite emotional. Your flare-ups of passion and poignancy are mostly just for appearance. Frequently, you are not totally sure yourself whether your feelings are real or somehow calculated. Acting is one of your best-loved games, but be sure you do not forget yourself in taking on all those roles. A number of emotional issues can result from going against your real nature. You are somewhat cerebral and you have a love of knowledge, but you never dig too far into things. There is nothing of the scholar in you because you seem to know something about nearly everything. Focus on one goal or target and learn to narrow down the range of your interests and activities. Chasing pleasure can become very strong for many Scorpio-Gemini.