

Sun in Scorpio/Moon in Sagittarius:

Prognostic

Many Scorpio-Sagittarians experience a consuming humanitarian and spiritual impulse, and probably know they have a purpose in life. People respect your aim and determination. Most are absorbed into your magnetic and spiritual presence. Kindness rules in your relationships and you are always open and affectionate. However, you do have an air of distance which some construe as haughtiness. This is a result of being such a free spirit and being determined to do your own thing for truth, nirvana, and wisdom. Kindness, profundity, unity, idealism and all of the better qualities of Scorpio are disclosed when blended with a Sagittarius Moon. You are a beacon of light to others with your grand vision and elevated goals. Your will power, perseverance, and remarkable perceptiveness help you bring some of those ends into the world. Maybe you are right that you have all the answers, even though you are impertinent and unorthodox. You need a great deal of freedom and you are a rebel in everything. Any control or imposition on your autonomy is experienced as a menace. You need to do as you please and have room to express yourself because you have an adventurous and heroic spirit. You would never contravene on the rights of people because honesty and loyalty are your creeds. Your one large defect is that at times you may be a little too candid because tact is very rare in Scorpio-Sagittarius people. Your frankness can be vicious. You are an idealist in romance and everything else. After you have conferred your tenderness, you are fun loving and unreserved. You are a loyal, trustworthy and true person. You are concerned with discovering spiritual truth. Self-contemplation is one way of detecting it, because many of the solutions lie inside. Your mental imagery is so potent that sometimes it can take you away and be a root of phobias or delusions. You frequently look at things from a transcendental perspective, which sometimes warps your otherwise good judgment. You are practical though, like your fellow Scorpions. You are essentially a romantic at heart, believing in things that others find hard to penetrate, maybe because you are so far in front of everyone else. But you do sometimes seem astute and sophisticated. Your strength is the courage to explore uncharted new worlds of thinking and feeling. You show the way that others will follow tomorrow like all forerunners.
